

Handelsblatt

Handelsblatt – Ready for fresh thinking

The world is facing a decade of profound change: Technological disruptions, the green transformation of the of the economy and demographic change will change business models, companies and the lives of millions and millions of people. Global development, financial markets and economies, international trade agreements or national tax legislation — decision-makers must be aware of all decisive factors. Handelsblatt reporters and correspondents all over the world describe what moves the economy and provide orientation. They look behind the scenes of the big companies and the Berlin politics. They analyse which technologies, trends and innovations will change, which industries will rise and fall. And how the geopolitical balance of power is shifting. "If you want to understand the economy of the future must read Handelsblatt," says Sebastian Matthes, Editor-in-Chief of Handelsblatt.

In its political, corporate, financial and investment sections, Handelsblatt presents extensive background reporting. Friday edition provides additional value for the readers with the topics of careers, real estate, art, and literature. A detailed commentary and analysis section, internationally renowned columnists and numerous tools underpin the unique position of Handelsblatt as Germany's leading business and financial newspaper.

Over the past decades, Handelsblatt has developed into a globally networked, round-the-clock news platform for exclusive business journalism. The Handelsblatt brand thus meets the current needs of information and user behaviour. In terms of content, the offerings are optimally interlinked to provide top decision-makers with relevant information across all channels.
